

Twenty years ago, watchmaker Félix Baumgartner and artist Martin Frei launched URWERK. With the UR 101, they introduced the concept of satellite mechanisms and launched a new wave of watchmaking. Their secret was absolute consistency in their approach, the coherence of their unique style, and an obsession with chronometric rigour.

